Design and governance considerations

• Distinguish customer initiation from bank execution; sensitive changes require authorization and audit.

• Integrate with CBS for customer, linked accounts and rent recovery; use the Locker Management backend for inventory, allotment and operations.

• Use strong authentication, step-up verification, access controls and tamper-evident audit records.

• Ordinary lockers do not imply that the bank knows the contents of the locker.

• Apply local legal requirements to nomination, agreements, branch waiting lists, access notifications and claims. For Indian deployment, validate current RBI and banking-law requirements before implementation.

Recommendation

Build the customer app as a secure self-service extension of the bank's Locker Management System, sharing business rules, approvals, rent calculation and access controls with branch operations. The final feature set should be tailored to the applicable country and bank policies.
